About the kit:

From mountain to ocean, this bracelet feature lava beads representing volcano life, all the way to the seashore with Larimar - an ocean stone that is only found in one kilometer on this planet! We've included puka shells from Hawaii to have an authentic island experience :)

Larimar is a stone which radiates love and peace. It is said to enlighten and heal in a physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual way. It is considered to be a great stone for the throat chakra, inasmuch as it promotes the ability to speak from the heart and enables one to communicate with emotional strength. It is an excellent stone for those seeking a soulmate. It dissolves self-sabotaging behavior, especially the tendency towards self-imposed suffering, and assists one in taking control of one's life. Larimar assists one in meeting challenges with a neutral state of mind. It is also a good stone for relaxation.
